About the European Law School

The European Law School network was established in 2006 by three founding members (Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, King's College London, and Université Paris Panthéon-Assas) to develop the European Lawyer programme - Juriste Européen; Sapienza Università di Roma and the University of Amsterdam have then become members. Recently, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Universidade Católica Portuguesa, and National and Kapodistrian University of Athens have joined the network.

Students who attend this programme pursue undergraduate studies at their home institution for three years and then spend two years at two of the partner universities (one year at each institution). At the end of the fifth year, they obtain three degrees from three different universities and the additional diploma of European Lawyer - Juriste Européen.

The central aim of the course of study is to enable students to obtain a deeper knowledge and understanding of the different legal systems in Europe and of European law in general. They will thus acquire the necessary skills to become European lawyers in a globalized world.

In addition to the opportunities offered to law school and master students, the ELS network values and promotes study and exchange activities with privileged access for PhD students and Post-docs at the partner universities.
