About the European Law School

The European Law School network was established in 2006 by its three founding members (Humboldt Universität zu Berlin, King's College London and Université Paris II, Panthéon-Assas) in order to develop an European Lawyer programme ('Juriste Européen'). Sapienza Università di Roma and the University of Amsterdam have recently become members of this prestigious programme.

Students who join this programme pursue undergraduate studies at their home institution for three years and then spend two years at two of the five partner universities (one year at each institution), obtaining a Masters degree at each of them.

The central aim of the course of study is to enable students to obtain a deeper knowledge and understanding of different legal systems in Europe, and of European law in general. They will therefore acquire the necessary skills to become an European lawyer in a global world.
